

MONTANA Fusiontec skins for Professionals

Jim Moore

Jim Moore of Lake Tahoe's North Shore Adventures is a certified AMGA, PSIA, and WSUPA guide. He tested our new Adrenaline Fusiontec skins and is now using and recommending the product as his everyday skin.

His story:

I got a chance to try out the skins in different conditions during my "research" of a few different aspects and zones and was pleasantly surprised.

They were put to the test in a variety of snow conditions from powder to melt/freeze to windpack to sastrugi and were up to the test through multiple transitions. The glide was fine and the grip was fantastic, even on a too steep, too icy skin track. The ease of use was impressive, from cutting them to size to the unique tip connection that even has one of my initials on it. I'll be able to interchange them from ski to ski with 3 different sizes in my quiver. One problem I have here in the Sierra is "glopping" as the sun warms the snow, but there was not a moment when snow stuck to the skins, which is a big plus over other brands I use.

The next question will be durability, but I'll be using them and recommending the product as my everyday skin for the rest of the season so we'll find out soon enough.

Thanks again,
Jim Moore

Update May 2022

I've been doing some product testing for skins this winter and now, in the middle of May, I think we have a winner:

MONTANA skins have out-performed Ascension, Pomoca, Black Diamond, and G3. Thanks for the product... I depend on it.
